Tonight at midnight when it switches over to the 22nd, I'm officially done with probation. All the pressure, stress, anxiety, fear and desperation I had been under for a few years is all gone. I'm no longer desperate about anything. I'm going to be getting around $520k out of the house when it sells. I'm going to have an estate sale and then move whatever doesn't sell. I can finally breathe. In roughly 60 days I am out of this house. I am going to rent for a little bit and take my time in picking a home instead of just a house. I have no ill feelings toward or about you at all. The pressure is off and I'm no longer full of anxiety and fear, and it feels wonderful. I can't wait to get out of this house, It's been my prison for many years. Hope life finds you well.
